

Kingston first solar

This PDF is generated from: <https://artetmiss.us/Fri-25-Mar-2022-4555.html>

Title: Kingston first solar

Generated on: 2026-04-26 01:59:04

Copyright (C) 2026 ARTEMISS SOLAR INFRA. All rights reserved.

For the latest updates and more information, visit our website: <https://artetmiss.us>

-----

Unitil's new solar array in Kingston is the first to be owned and operated by a regulated distribution utility in New Hampshire.

A groundbreaking ceremony was held Tuesday to officially mark the start of construction on a new 4.9-megawatt solar array in Kingston.

But first, we want to prove out the benefits of this project," Meissner said. Once completed, it will be the first utility-scale project created by a public ...

The Kingston project was approved by the New Hampshire Public Utilities Commission in May 2023 and has since received all required local, state, and federal permits to clear the way for ...

Officials with Unitil, an electric and natural gas provider based in Hampton, New Hampshire, have broken ground on a first-of-its-kind project in the state.

In a historic move aimed at supporting renewable energy projects in New England, Unitil Corporation broke ground on a new 4.9-megawatt solar ...

The first utility-owned solar plant is a 2.59 MW in Moultonborough, owned by New Hampshire Electric Cooperative. The Kingston solar project will ...

We built our first solar array in 2017 in Fitchburg, Mass. The 1.3-megawatt facility, known as "Solarway," involved the installation of more than ...

Unitil has begun site work on New Hampshire's first regulated ...

The utility's first array was built in 2017 in Fitchburg, Mass., and features a 1.3-megawatt facility known as "Solarway," which has more than ...

Kingston first solar

Web: <https://artetmiss.us>

